

For up to 10 points back on your Homework 1 score, identify the places in your Homework 1 submission where you made errors and clearly explain why they are incorrect. In most cases, you will not be able to get all of the points back on a problem, even if you correctly identify all of the errors, because an error usually leads you down a wrong path in your solution. However, we will try to be fair in determining much additional credit you have earned.

Note that a full solution is available, so you will not get any points for writing up a correct solution. Instead, all of your points will come from correctly identifying your errors and explaining why they are errors. For this reason, if you simply did not do a problem (or part of a problem), you cannot get points for that problem (or part of the problem).

If you do not understand what your error(s) are, please get help! Note that since the solutions are available, you are welcome to post your solution in Discord to solicit help from your peers.
